Additional Information

The Second Judicial District Court and Pretrial Services Division in conjunction with the District Attorney's and Public Defender's office piloted a mental health court in 2003 with the focus on decriminalizing individuals with mental health disorders while providing an avenue for accountability, treatment, quality of life and public safety. The first Judicial Review was held on October 31, 2003 with five participants. Funding was appropriated by the NM Legislature in 2005. Participants are in the program for a minimum of twelve (12) months and up to three (3) years depending on the charges, prior history and treatment compliance. They participate in active supervision appearing before the Judge; graduate after they successfully complete the first phase of the program; then continue to be supervised through a step down process to ensure continued compliance with treatment and medication; and transition to the participant's natural support system. Collaboration and cooperation amount Judges, prosecutors, Public Defenders, defense attorneys, family members, employers, probation authorities, law enforcement, other judicial jurisdiction and entities, treatment providers, educational and vocational agencies, housing programs and case management systems must occur to ensure the participant's success. Participants must be competent to stand trial; and their case, in whole or part, must be prosecutable. JSP is a voluntary program. The SJDC Pretrial Services Division provides Jail Diversion services to individuals with severe persistent mental health disorders, Pretrial Services supervision to adults charged with felony offenses, and background investigations.

Additional Information

The Eleventh Judicial District Drug Court Program (DCP) began pilot operation on October 7, 1997. The Drug Court Program is a minimum ten month, four phase, adult felony drug court. The mission of the program is to mandate adult felony offenders to achieve total abstinence from illicit and illegal drug use, thereby diverting them from the New Mexico Corrections Department prison system and reducing the incidence of recidivism. To do so the Drug Court provides court-sponsored, community based treatment and supervision to selected offenders who are identified as having substance abuse issues and who could benefit from drug education and treatment. The Drug Court Program is a joint venture between the public and private sectors which requires cooperation and collaboration among all of the following: Judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys, probation parole authorities, other corrections personnel, law enforcement, pretrial service agencies, vocational rehabilitation agencies, educational agencies, housing agencies, and substance abuse treatment providers such as Presbyterian Medical Services (PMS). PMS is currently under contract for the entire caseload.
